

Table of Content

Introduction	2
One: Anti-Imperialist Networks. Artists and Activists in the Cosmopolitan City	18
Mexican Muralism: Avant-Garde, Anti-Imperialism, Nationalism	23
Depicting the Empire on Walls and on Paper	38
An Anti-Imperialist Cosmopolitan Summer?	50
Two: Envisioning Anti-Imperialist America. Exile Networks in Mexico City	59
Making Mexico City a Hub for Exile Radicalism	64
Dynamic Networks: Exile Activism in Urban Spaces	77
Fragmentation: Re-Importing Diaspora Radicalism	89
Three: Standing with Sacco and Sandino. Transnational Solidarity Campaigns	109
Pro Sacco and Vanzetti in Mexico City	114
Summer of Desperation: Radicalizing Solidarity and Anti-Imperialism	119
The Nicaragua Solidarity Campaign in Mexico City	124
Four: Anti-Imperialist Imaginaries. Mexican Origins of Tricontinentalism	140
Anti-Imperialist Encounters: Revolutions in Mexico and Russia	144
Anti-Imperialist Allies: Anticolonial Revolutions and Tricontinentalism	157
Five: Globalizing Urban Networks. The Brussels Congress of 1927	179
Organizing Anti-Imperialist Euphoria, 1925–27	185
A Global Stage for Anti-Imperialist Networks, February 1927	195
Desintegration and Disillusionment, 1927–29	208
Conclusion	219
Acronyms	228
Bibliography	229